Refreshing Historic Oakmont Court Residences

AMITY + KETT ARCHITECTURE AND INTERIOR DESIGN SELECTED BY TRINITY UNIVERSITY

OLMOS PARK, TEXAS -- Interior designer Amity Worrel and architect Dianne Kett have announced the opening of their new residential design studio Amity + Kett Architecture and Interior Design at 4211 McCullough Avenue in downtown Olmos Park. The new design partnership has recently been selected by Trinity University for the renovation of four residences located in the Monte Vista neighborhood on historic Oakmont Court.

The residences are planned to be utilized as homes for Trinity faculty. “We are working together with Trinity University to create a respectful renovation that aesthetically preserves the period while accommodating the modern functionality needs of today’s families,” interior designer, Amity Worrel said.

The San Antonio design studio is a new joint venture from two Austin firms, Amity Worrel & Co. and DK Studio. “Through our experience working together on many Travis county-area projects, we found that we have excellent creative synchronicity and great communication. This has successfully served our projects as well as our clients,” said Kett. “We both love the history and architecture in San Antonio’s neighborhoods and recognize the opportunity in San Antonio,” Kett added. “Dianne and I are thrilled to be part of the growing design community here in Olmos Park and are very excited about the unique design opportunities our San Antonio clients will offer. It is distinctly different from the Austin market,” said Worrel.

The firm brings full-service residential architecture, interior design and interior decorating services to the greater San Antonio-area. The design services encompass: remodels, custom builds, plan and space elevation analysis, furniture planning, furniture and fabric specification, color and materials, lighting specification, product purchasing, millwork specification, fixture and fitting selections, furniture budgeting, custom furniture design and procurement, product expediting and procurement.

In addition, Amity + Kett will host “Design Discovery,” an event series held at their studio that features informational talks with insights, discussions and tips presented by various local design experts. According to Kett and Worrel Design Discovery is, “our way to help promote, connect and enjoy the design industry through these fun informal talks.” There is no charge for the events, but will be invitation-only due to limited seating at the studio. Interested individuals who wish to attend need to sign-up online at www.amitykett.com in order to receive an invitation. The first event, “Revealed: Secrets of how to work with architects, interior designers and custom builders,” is planned for January 25, 2018.
